MADRID, Sept. 13.—Spain is in the travail of a revolution. A military coup d'etat, originating in Barcelona, has spread rapidly through various districts and provinces of the country and has aroused the deepest concern to the government.

At the head of the movement is the captain-general of Barcelona, Primo Rivera, a man of strong influence and powerful associations. Behind him are the officers of the army, who have been chafing for many months under the ignominy of the Moroccan campaign, and with the officers are the rank and file.

King Alfonso is believed to be at San Sebastian. There are various reports as to his probable action in the crisis, and he may even now be on his way to Madrid to take up consideration of the threatening situation with Primo Rivera.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1923

DELAYS ARE DANGEROUS.

During the drive that was made to get farmers into the wheat pool the argument was very generally employed that the farmer who did not join would not be able to sell his wheat, or at best could only expect to do so after the members had been accommodated. The intention was that the pool should get control of all the elevators in the province, an obviously necessary step if members in all districts were to be given the privilege of selling their wheat through that agency. The first and last obligation of the management being to the members, those would of course get the preference when more grain was offered than could be handled. The man outside the pool would therefore be at the mercy of a monopoly, and no points were taken to create a supposition that he would be treated other than usual under such circumstances.

So far as things have developed the shoe appears to be on the other foot. It is the pool member who is without elevator facilities. Thus far the pool has secured control only of the elevators belonging to the Grain Growers, a comparatively small fraction of the total number in the province, and located only at odd points in the central and northern districts. Negotiations have been in course at Winnipeg for a fortnight looking to the securing of the privately owned elevators. What has transpired indicates that if these are turned over to the pool at all it will be at a price satisfactory to the owners, and therefore far enough to impose a fairly heavy toll upon the grain that is put through them. Meantime the owners of the private elevators have started buying grain. The farmer who did not contract to deliver to the pool thus has the same facilities as in other years. The one who signed and is staying with the pool project is waiting indefinitely for it to get the elevators and begin to function. The farmer who is unable to sell his wheat to the pool is waiting until the pool the one who went into it and is waiting until it gets ready to take his wheat.

No doubt the directors of the pool have been making as rapid headway with the enterprise as was possible. They could do little until it was found whether sufficient signatures could be secured to warrant them going on with the undertaking. The fifty per cent. requirement has been reached. Something less than half the amount of land under wheat last year is represented by the contracts made, and the amount this year is nearly a quarter of a million acres in excess of last year's total. Definite arrangements for taking over the private elevators can hardly be made until it is seen how many of the signers of the contracts will withdraw during the period of grace allowed. Mr. James Stewart, who was actively sought last year as chairman of the proposed wheat board, and who was called into conference by Mr. Wood last month in reference to the wheat pool, gave an opinion that the machinery could not be got in motion in less than two months, that is to say, by the first of November or thereabouts.
With every apparent desire and reason to hurry things, the management cannot so fairly be expected to get in position for some weeks yet. To accept wheat at all local delivery points throughout the province.

How long they will then be able to continue to do business will depend a good deal upon whether winter opens early or late. When the lakes freeze the grain movement will come to a halt, and if the pool cannot keep on selling and clearing its elevators it cannot keep on buying with neither money nor storage space. The entire elevator plant of the province cannot accommodate any large portion of the heavy crop for storage purposes.
The prospect therefore rather seems to be that the man who waits for the pool may have to keep on waiting longer than he wants to. With the enormous amount of grain to be got out time is an important element. It is a certainty that a good part of the crop will have to lie in the elevators and granaries until spring in any case. The more delay there is when shipping is possible, the more grain will be on hand when shipping is not possible, and the more farmers who will have to tie through the winter without the proceeds of their year's labor.

ONE THING AFTER ANOTHER.

While the Balkans are the Balkans, Europe will not be without thrills. No sooner is the Italian Greek row put in the way of settlement than the Italians and the Jugo Slavs are found glaring at each other, while Greece greets that the Albanians have closed their border and are distributing arms—with the intention of fighting all three likely enough. It must keep the statesmen of Europe busy trying to remember which particular squabble it is that they are trying to settle in that corner.

STOPPING THE "WAR"

The German Chancellor announces that he is negotiating with "all the powers" regarding Germany's position, and has had an interview with the French ambassador in reference to the situation in the Ruhr. That is in confirmation of a previous report that the German Government had decided to drop "passive resistance," and passed the word to the people in the Ruhr district to make the best of the circumstances. Since that is the one condition France has demanded, the inference is that Berlin has made up its mind to pay something—or at least to allow France to collect what it can get without interference.

THE RACE QUESTION.

The Dominion Trades and Labor Congress at Vancouver passed a resolution asking for the total exclusion of Oriental immigration. If the proposal were made law there would be consternation in some quarters of British Columbia, where most of the lumbering, mining, railroad work and farming is done by people from the Orient. But eventually the bars will have to be put up, or the door kept more nearly closed than it has been.
The whites in the Pacific province are in prospect of being "swamped" by in-pouring millions from beyond the Pacific. The movement will have to be either effectively controlled or stopped altogether. "As at present there is little immigration save from the Orient, and as the yellow folks have the white beaten in the matter of birth rate, the proportion of this element in B.C.'s population is growing at a substantial rate."

THE REPORTER FOILED.

Despatches from Japan are only beginning to tell the world in detail what really happened there in the earthquake ten days ago. The hoisted rapidly with news is gathered and broadcasted in these modern times cannot be illustrated by reference to this probably most awful of all tragedies of the kind. The thing was literally too big to be reported. It destroyed the machinery by which the world could have been informed of the damage done. Many of those whose business would have been to forward the news were killed, the others had to flee for their lives or to hunt for food instead of "stories." And the telegraph and telephone systems and railways were wrecked throughout all the affected area.
Both the news gatherers and the means by which they could have been informed were put out of commission. That perhaps indicates the whole scale character of the destruction as well as thousands of cables would do. An event so vast that it puts the modern news collector out of business and leaves the world in anxious ignorance ten days must be remarkably destructive.

The North Land Aglow

There's a time in each year,
That we always love dear, So a mate of my calling once sang When the rose in full bloom, Peeped in every bright room, While the lark's rippling melody rang.
But give me the wall,
Of the wolf on the trail,
And the gleam of the North Land glow,
The smoke curling white, O'er rolling hills bright,
From a cabin deep buried in snow.
Then I'll laugh at the strife,
And the bustle of life,
With its paint and its powder and guile, The lip and the lash,
Where lust and greed flash,
And the heart that is callous and vile.

In that ever fair land,
On that far gliding strand, Where no human foot hardly has trod, Where the breath of man lifts, Like a wind as it drifts, Like a spirit ascending to God.
O'er the maple may spread Its red leaves o'er man's head,
And the sun through his highways may flow, But give me the furs
Of the North Land perfume,
And the gleam of the North Land glow.

Permeate the press that they have gone to the employment bureau, have asked for men, when the men have come, they have given them the work and have had no more to say.
The men have been treated as men, and have offered $2.00 a day to men in the employment office and not a cent more.
The city council should take note of this situation.
Any man who will not go to a factory help with the harvest, when offered reasonable wages, is a scoundrel, poor and simple, and he should be run out of town.
The chief of police should be instructed to detail an officer to the employment bureau, where men are being sent out, to see that the prevailing scale is checked up. If he refuses to go to the bureau he should be given the minimum amount of time to get out of Calgary.
Action of this sort should be taken promptly. Although it is no place for strikers and idlers at the present time.
